lingoda

Making a basic presentation

COMMUNICATION

LEVEL Intermediate NUMBER EN_BE_3420X LANGUAGE English

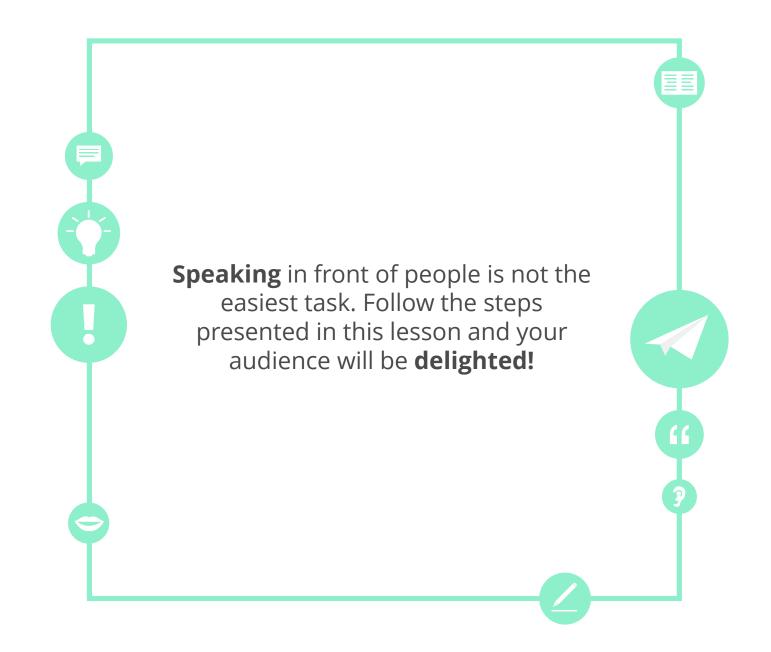

Goals

- Can identify and explain the features of a basic presentation.
- Can plan and deliver a straightforward and wellstructured presentation.

■ In this lesson, you will learn how to structure and deliver a short presentation.

After making a successful public presentation, the mayor was re-elected.

Do you remember these phrases?

ladies and gentlemen

move on to start with divided into

I would like to

to summarise

talk about

as you all know

Vocabulary in context

When making a formal speech, you welcome the audience by saying ladies and gentlemen.

I would like to tell you a little bit about myself before introducing my business plan.

To summarise, I organised the facts that I presented earlier in a table.

Talking about sensitive topics in public is not a good idea.

Vocabulary in context

As you all know, we do not allow smoking in this building.

This presentation will be divided into four sections.

Before presenting the figures, I would like to start with an anecdote.

Let's move on to the next section.

Write your own sentences

Write your own example sentences using the words or phrases below.

1. I would like to...

2. talk about

I would now like to move on to the main topic.

3. move on to

4. start with

5. divided into

Presentation problems

Discuss the questions below.

- What could you do to feel prepared and relaxed before giving a presentation?
- What are some of the things that could go wrong during a presentation?
- How would you deal with the things you discussed when answering the previous question?

Preparing for a presentation

- Before giving a presentation, you have to take your time and plan it thoroughly.
- When preparing, ask yourself the questions below.

topics	questions
purpose of the presentation	What is the message I want to transmit?
audience	Who am I talking to?
structure	How long will I speak? How many parts do I need? What is my conclusion?
logistics	Will I use a presentation? How many slides should it have?
content	Am I providing an argument? Am I sharing data? Will I suggest anything?

Formal or informal?

In English, we use different introductions for different audiences when giving a presentation.

How would you address your audiences in these situations?

- 1. your colleagues
- 2. teenagers on an educational school trip at your company
- 3. international business owners
- 4. your manager at work
- 5. a hiring manager

First impressions

What does the proverb below mean?

Why do you think making a good first impression is important?

First impressions are the most lasting.

Introduction

■ It is important to give a strong and good first impression.

www.lingoda.com

■ Don't forget to make sure you look smart.

what to do in an introduction

introduce yourself

talk about the content and structure of your presentation

talk about the main subject

Write a sample introduction

Write an introduction to a presentation on any topic.
You can choose a work-related topic if you like.

Remember: an interesting hook will grab your audience's attention.

Main body

■ The main body of the presentation is the most informative and awareness-raising section.

- Remember that too many pictures or film clips can be distracting.
- Be aware of what information is on the slide (if any) and what you need to provide verbally.
- Double check that people are following you and that your arguments are clear.

Main body

- In the main body you should try to use connectors such as linking words or signalling words.
- This will make your presentation sound more natural and give it a much better flow.

Examples of English connectors for presentations:

- firstly, secondly, next, finally, before, afterwards, then
- besides, furthermore, in addition, additionally, moreover, in fact
- however, although, despite, still
- therefore, consequently, as a result, thus
- definitely, certainly, without a doubt
- for example, for instance
- as I have shown, as we have seen, in conclusion, as a result, as you can see

lingoda

Practise using some of these connectors in sentences

as a result before additionally As a result of the team's hard work, we are now ahead of our monthly target! for example as we have seen however therefore finally as you can see

Main body

Think about the topic you wrote about on p. 14. Write a short main body for your presentation.

State your main

- Analyse your argument by providing supporting details.
- Give further explanation.

idea.

Try to use some of the connectors listed on p. 16.

Firstly, I would like to talk about current environmental issues.

In addition...

Conclusion

- Because the conclusion is the last part of your talk, it brings closure to a presentation with a lasting impact.
- See below for some tips about what you should do during your conclusion.

things to do in a conclusion

summarise the main arguments show how the conclusion follows on logically from the main body

ask if anyone has questions or comments

After the presentation

■ Give the audience the opportunity to ask questions about the presentation once you are finished.

Ask yourself:

- What will my audience probably ask questions about?
- Which parts are the most difficult to understand or are potentially unclear?
- Be humble.
 - If you don't have an answer, admit it and commit yourself to future research.

Throughout the presentation

■ Below are some other things to keep in mind throughout the presentation.

things to consider answer most of the basic questions: when, where, what, why, who and how use complete sentences

ensure you are loud and clear

Be an audience

Empathy is understanding how other people are feeling by imagining that you are in their situation.

Put yourself in an audience's shoes and answer the questions below.

What do you expect from a presenter?

What kind of visual aids do you like to see?

How would you like to be addressed or treated?

What makes a presentation interesting?

Useful phrases for presentations

Here are some useful phrases and expressions that you can use during a presentation.

introduction	main body	conclusion
Thank you for coming.	So, let's begin with	To sum up
Today I'm going to talk about	Moving on to	As you can see
I would like to start by	Let's move on to	Thank you for listening.
Could I have your attention, please?	My next point deals with	Does anyone have any questions?
It's an honour to be able to present to you today.	And, last but not least	In conclusion

Useful phrases

Can you think of any more useful phrases?
Write them down and then share them with your teacher or classmates.

introduction

conclusion

main body

answering questions

Share your experience

Discuss the questions below with your teacher or classmates.

When was the last time you watched a good presentation?

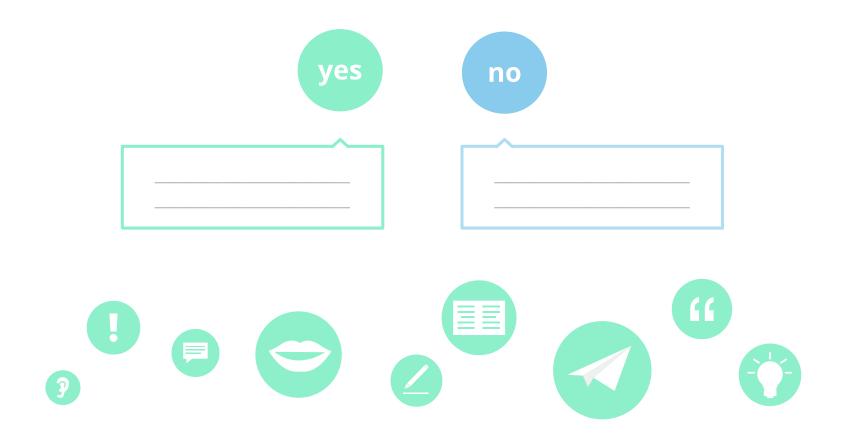

What was it about?

Was it informative and enjoyable?

Reflect on the goals

Go back to the second slide of the lesson and check if you have achieved all the goals of the lesson.

www.lingoda.com

26

Reflect on this lesson

Think about everything you have seen in this lesson. What were the most difficult activities or words? The easiest?

Homework categorise activity

introduction main body conclusion

Prepare a presentation on a topic of your choice. Take all the tips you have learnt during this lesson into consideration.

Homework answer key

```
conclusion.
To sum up...
Thank you for listening.
In conclusion...
Does anyone have any questions?
```

Moving on to...
My next point deals with...
So, let's begin with...
Last but not least...

Exercise p. 29
introduction
Thank you for coming.
I would like to start by...
Today I'm going to talk about...
Could I have your attention, please?

About this material

Find out more at www.lingoda.com

This material is provided by lingoda

lingoda Who are we?

Why learn English online?

What kinds of English classes do we offer?

Who are our English teachers?

How do our English certificates work?

www.lingoda.com

We also have a language blog!

32